PRAYER FOR THE U. S. NAVY

O ETERNAL GOD, Creator of the Universe and Governor of Nations: Most heartily we beseech Thee with Thy favor to uphold and bless Thy servant, the President of the United States, and all officers of our Government, and so replenish them with the grace of Thy Holy Spirit that they may always incline to Thy will and walk in Thy way.

May the vessels of our Navy be guarded and guided by Thy Providence and care. May they not bear the sword in vain but ever vanquish those who do evil and defend all who do well.

Graciously bless the officers and men of our Navy. May love of country be engraven on their hearts, and may their brave spirits be duly appreciated by a grateful nation; may their lives be precious in Thy sight, and while our ships of war are engaged in battle, grant that their struggles may be through an enforced necessity for the defense of right.

Bless all nations and hasten the day when the principles of holy religion shall so prevail that none shall wage war for aggression, and none shall need it as a means of defense.

These blessings we ask in the name of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

This prayer is offered at the launchings of naval capital ships, and at meetings of the Society of Sponsors of the U. S. Navy. It is an adaptation of a prayer offered by the Reverend Doctor Studdard at a launching of a naval ship at the Philadelphia Navy Yard in 1843. The full text of the prayer was discovered in research work for a previous volume of Ships of the U. S. Navy and Their Sponsors. It was sent to Washington with the suggestion that it be used at future launchings of warships. The suggestion was favorably received by Secretary of the Navy, Josephus Daniels, and was adopted at the launching of the battleship Oklahoma, 1914, and thereafter at launchings of capital ships. During the First World War the prayer was sent to ministers and was offered in churches throughout the nation as the prayer of our Navy.

FOREWORD

THROUGHOUT HISTORY new weapons have often been heralded as the ultimate weapon that will sweep surface ships from the seas. This is an old story to sailors. In the 19th Century, it was the rifled gun; then it was the torpedo, the submarine, the airplane and now the H-bomb. Sailors have never underestimated these new weapons. But rather than spelling the doom of navies, these powerful new weapons invariably have added to the strength of seapower.

Your Navy has changed a great deal since Volume 3, Ships of the United States Navy and Their Sponsors, appeared in 1950. By the time Volume 5 appears, there will be even more change. While the ships and their design may become radical in today's terms, they will be more effective tools with which to maintain control of the seas.

In this nuclear-missile age, mobile forces are becoming more and more important. The fixed military installations are likely targets in the initial stages of a war. Mobility is important now and its importance will increase as better missiles are developed.

Nuclear power in our ships of the future will give our forces more mobility. Our forces at sea will be able to stay at sea longer and cruise faster without our former concern for fuel.

Our forces at sea no longer resemble the tight formations used during the last war. We have spread out, moved the ships far apart; this way we improve our defense against attack. Even if hit, which would be hard for an enemy to do, we still would not lose more than a ship or two. By spreading our ships out we also provide a defense in depth. Should an enemy try to get our attack carriers he would have to fly through many rings of defense. The outer ships would provide warning long before the enemy came within reach of our force. He would be instantly attacked by our fighter aircraft. If he managed to get by them, our missile firing destroyers and cruisers would go to work on him. The missiles we have on these ships are good and we have had excellent results with them. By the time the enemy had arrived at the place he thought the carriers were they would have dispersed even more.

The advent of new weapons is not a cause for concern about their adverse effects upon the future of the United States Navy—on the contrary, they are a source of ever-increasing strength to our forces afloat.

The vast and sweeping technological changes which we are witnessing have resulted in changes and improvement in naval capabilities. Today your Navy is an important member of a powerful national defense team, and its importance is growing. The confederation of free nations depends for its survival on our continued control of the seas—a control which only your United States Navy with the other Navies of the Free World can exercise today.

ARLEIGH A. BURKE
Admiral, United States Navy
Chief of Naval Operations

INTRODUCTION

WHEN the third volume of Ships of the United States Navy and Their Sponsors was published, in 1950, it contained the records of more than four thousand combatant ships covering the period of unprecedented shipbuilding during World War II. The present volume contains the records of fewer vessels but among them are several new types of ships. These are of the latest design with highly-developed electronic equipment and atomic propulsion.

These new devices are being installed in the ships, listed in this volume, built during the so-called Atomic Age. Many of them are as different from the ships of World War II, listed in Volume Three, as those were from the sailing ships of the Continental Navy. "Smaller and tougher," Admiral Burke puts it.

Under the conditions existing today, the Navy feels that every ship it commissions is part of its Fighting Fleet. Each plays its part in maintaining the secure shield that our atomic Navy assures our country today, just as our fleets have in the past. Accordingly, the Society of Sponsors includes in this volume certain types of ships hitherto considered as auxiliaries and noncombatant.

The Society of Sponsors of the United States Navy is deeply appreciative of the trust imposed in it by the Department of the Navy in allowing it to list the ships in this compact reference book, and for its co-operation in supplying the needed data, not only for this volume, but also for the three previous ones.

On the following pages are listed the ships of the U. S. Navy whose sponsors, having christened a ship in the Fighting Fleet, are now eligible to membership in the Society of Sponsors of the United States Navy.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

GRATEFUL acknowledgments are due to the Navy Department for its cooperation; to Admiral Arleigh A. Burke, U.S.N., Chief of Naval Operations, for allowing the use of data from the Navy Department files; to Rear Admiral Albert G. Mumma, U.S.N., Chief of Bureau of Ships; to Rear Admiral Ernest M. Eller, U.S.N., Director of Naval History; to the personnel in the Division of Naval History with especial thanks to Mrs. E. S. Talley and Mr. Loyd A. Olsson; and to Mrs. John Frier, past Secretary-Treasurer of the Society of Sponsors, for the long hours she spent in helping check and type the manuscript.

The deep appreciation of the Society of Sponsors of the U. S. Navy goes to Mrs. Bryson Bruce, the Society's President, and her Board of Trustees for their constant interest and wholehearted support which made possible the publication of the fourth volume of Ships of the U. S. Navy and Their Sponsors.

FOUNDING OF THE SOCIETY OF SPONSORS OF THE UNITED STATES NAVY

ON FEBRUARY 19, 1908, a group of fourteen sponsors met in a small room at the Willard Hotel in Washington, D.C., to organize the "Society of Sponsors of the United States Navy." Engraved invitations had been sent out by Miss Keith Frazier, sponsor of the USS Tennessee, inviting all known sponsors to be present and participate in the organization of the Society. Prior to that time, no record of the names of the sponsors of Navy ships had been kept. However, thanks to a list of 136 "fighting ships" in the Navy supplied by the then Secretary of the Navy, Victor H. Metcalf, ninety-seven sponsors were located. Of these, fourteen accepted the invitation.

These original fourteen, like the sponsors of today, represented many parts of our nation. Present were the sponsors of the USS Birmingham, USS Brooklyn, USS Chester, USS Denver, USS Iowa, USS Kentucky, USS Montana, USS Ohio, USS Salem, USS Tennessee, and USS Wisconsin. And, like the sponsors of fifty years later, they were united in their admiration for the United States Navy, in their desire to do something to show it, and in their pride in having been chosen to christen a Navy ship.

The first meeting was opened with a prayer by Navy Chaplain G. Livingston Bayard. An admiral was also present at the first meeting. He was Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, the hero of the recent Spanish-American War. His keen interest in the organization, from the outset, gave it a big boost and he was of great help in locating the sponsors.

At this most un-parliamentary meeting, the group chose Mary Campbell, the sponsor of the USS Birmingham, as its president. This was in recognition of the fact that the idea for such a society had originated and had been broadcast by the press at the time of the launching of that vessel. It was also agreed that a suitable pin be designed and presented at the next meeting. It was decided that the society should meet yearly and that a constitution be drafted.

The first sponsor luncheon was held at the Willard Hotel. The charter members were the guests of Minnie Conrad, sponsor of the USS Montana, who was living there that winter. Afterwards, they posed for a picture taken before a background of flags which had been borrowed, for the occasion, from the Washington Navy Yard.

That evening, the charter members attended the Army-Navy reception at the White House as the special guests of President Theodore Roosevelt, who was much interested in "the latest launching."

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THE SOCIETY OF SPONSORS OF THE UNITED STATES NAVY

ON MAY 8, 1958, the Society of Sponsors of the United States Navy, with an enrollment of almost one thousand, held its Fiftieth Anniversary luncheon at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, D.C. In attendance were 350 Sponsors. The luncheon speaker was Admiral Arleigh A. Burke, USN, Chief of Naval Operations. Only two of those who had attended the founding meeting in 1908 were present: Mrs. Keith Frazier Somerville, the Founder, and Captain George Livingston Bayard, CHC, USN (Ret.). At this luncheon, and at the dinner at Fort McNair the previous evening, many distinguished admirals were guests of the Society.

Through fifty years, the Society has worked for the U. S. Navy. It has previously published three volumes of Ships of the United States Navy and Their Sponsors. Through its scholarship fund, it has helped many boys, sons of Navy and Marine Corps personnel, to attend preparatory schools prior to entering the U. S. Naval Academy. One of its early projects was the "Tar Babies Home," an orphanage established to care for needy children of Navy families. This did excellent work but was finally abandoned, when help coming from other sources made its need unnecessary. For over half a century, the Society has actively participated in every organization or movement helpful to the Navy. For many years, it has given an award to an outstanding midshipman on his graduation from the U. S. Naval Academy.

The christening of a ship in Uncle Sam's Navy has always been deemed a great honor. In most cases, the honor has gone to prominent women in our nation, including wives or daughters of most of the Presidents of the United States, and the Society has been called "the most distinguished group in the United States." Its roster contains the names of many well-known personages who have given of their time, their energy, and their enthusiasm to work for our honored Navy.

PRESIDENTS OF THE SOCIETY OF SPONSORS

- Miss Mary Campbell, sponsor of USS Birmingham, daughter of the Mayor of the City of Birmingham, Alabama.
Miss Minnie Coates, sponsor of USS Concord, daughter of the Mayor of the City of Concord, New Hampshire.
Mrs. John G. South, sponsor of USS Kentucky, daughter of Governor William Bradley of Kentucky.
Mrs. Reynold T. Hall, sponsor of USS Roe, wife of Captain Hall, U.S.N.
Mrs. Russell C. Langdon, sponsor of USS Rowan, wife of General Langdon, U.S.A.
Mrs. Royal E. Ingersoll, sponsor of USS Gato, wife of Admiral Ingersoll, U.S.N.
Mrs. Julian C. Smith, sponsor of USS Tarawa, wife of Lieutenant General Smith, U.S.M.C., Retired
Mrs. William S. Pye, sponsor of USS Gudgeon, wife of Vice Admiral Pye, U.S.N.
Mrs. Robert C. Lee, sponsor of USS New York, wife of Rear Admiral Lee, U.S.N.R.
Mrs. Bryson Bruce, sponsor of USS Oahu, wife of Rear Admiral Bruce, U.S.N.

In connection with the christening of the USS Concord in 1890, it is a little-known fact that a former Concord, launched in 1828, was the first ship in the U. S. Navy to be christened by a woman. Prebles, in his History of the Portsmouth Navy Yard, records, "The Concord glided beautifully into her destined element and was christened by a young lady of Portsmouth." Her name is unknown. In those days, it was considered beyond the pale for a lady to have her name appear in print. Prior to that date, men had christened Navy ships. Generally, they were naval officers. They did the job efficiently with wine, brandy, or Irish whiskey. Since women have taken over, champagne has become the accepted christening medium.

During the past sixty years, there have been only two known male sponsors. On February 19, 1898, Master Charles Hillman christened the USS Mackenzie. On April 22, 1939, seven-year-old Master Donald McKay christened the Donald McKay, a store ship, built for the Maritime Administration and named for his great-great-grandfather, Donald McKay, the famous designer and builder of fast packet and clipper ships. On January 27, 1941, the Navy acquired the ship and changed its name to USS Polaris, by which name it is listed in this volume.

HOW SHIPS ARE NAMED

AIRCRAFT CARRIERS (CVA, CVL, CVS) are usually named for famous ships of the Old Navy or for important battles and engagements in the history of the U.S.—(Hornet, Saratoga, Midway, Tarawa).

Aircraft Carriers (CVE, CVHE) are named for bays and sounds of the U.S., and for World War II battles—(Mission Bay, Long Island Sound, Rendova).

Cruiser types, except for Large Cruisers (CB) and Tactical Command Ship (CLC), are named for cities of the U.S.—(Rochester, Los Angeles, Northampton).

Battleships (BB), are named for states, by act of Congress—(Iowa, New Jersey, Missouri).

Destroyer types are named for deceased Navy men, Marines, or Coast Guard personnel who served their country with exceptional bravery or distinction; they are also named for outstanding Secretaries of the Navy and members of Congress—(Taussig, Dyess, Mitscher, Frank Knox).

Submarine types are named for fish and other creatures of the sea—(Trout, Ray, Archer Fish).

Amphibious Force Flagship (AGC) are named for mountains and mountain ranges—(Mount McKinley, Adirondack).

Attack Cargo Ships (AKA) and Cargo Ships (AK) are named for heavenly bodies and counties of the U.S.—(Alshain, Betelgeuse, Union, Sussex).

Attack Transports (APA) and Self-Propelled Barracks Ships (APBs) are named for countries—(Freemont, Sanborn, Mercer).

For naming of High Speed Transports (APD) and Control Escort Vessels (DEC), see "Escort Vessels—DE."

Inshore Fire Support Ships (IFS) are named for weapons—(Caronade).

Dock Landing Ships (LSD) are named for historical places, especially homes of former Presidents—(Donner, Point Defiance, Gunston Hall).

Medium Landing Ships (Rocket) (LSMR) are named for rivers not having Indian names. The word "River" is added as part of the name—(White River, James River, Big Horn River).

Tank Landing Ships (LST) are named for counties. "County" is added as part of the name—(Cook County, King County, Stark County).

Destroyer Minelayers (DM) and Destroyer Minesweepers (DMS)—(As converted destroyers, these keep their former names.)

Other minesweeper and minelayer types—These bear the names of birds—(Flamingo, Bluebird, Quail); or "logical, fine sounding words"—(Dynamic, Pursuit, Bold, Success).

Escort Vessels (DE) are named for Navy Men, Marines, or Coast

Guard personnel killed in action in World War II—(Daniel A. Joy, Osberg, Dealey). Other DE types or DE conversions—DER, APD, DEC—also follow this method of naming.

Submarine Chasers and Escorts (PC, PCE, PCER, PCS) are named for cities of the U.S. with populations from 2,500 to 10,000—(Marysville, Durango, Groton).

Destroyer Tenders (AD) are named for localities and areas of the U.S.—(Dixie, Yosemite, Everglades).

Ammunition Ships (AE) are named for volcanoes—(Rainier, Mauna Loa) and words that suggest fire or explosives—(Pyro, Firedrake).

Store Ships (AF) and General Stores Issue Ships (AKS) are named for heavenly bodies—(Hyades, Denebola, Castor).

Icebreakers (AGB) are named for islands and bays of the U.S., as well as territories and possessions—(Burton Island, Atka).

Surveying Ships (AGS) are named for mathematicians and oceanographers—(Bowditch, Maury); and bays—(San Pablo).

Hospital Ships (AH) are named for words that suggest their mission—(Haven, Consolation).

Net Laying Ships (AN) are named for monitors of the Old Navy—(Passaic), and for trees—(Butternut).

Oilers (AO) and Gasoline Tankers (AOG) are named for rivers with Indian names—(Cimarron, Kankakee, Genesee).

Repair ships (AR, ARC, ARH, ARL) are named for characters in ancient mythology—(Vulcan, Neptune, Atlas, Jason).

Salvage Ships (ARS) and Salvage Lifting Vessels (ARSD) are named for words that indicate their jobs or equipment—(Recovery, Grapple, Windlass).

Submarine Tenders (AS) are named for men who did early work in submarine development—(Fulton, Bushnell); and for characters in mythology—(Nereus, Orion).

Submarine Rescue Vessels (ASR) are named for birds—(Penguin, Skylark).

Fleet Ocean Tugs (ATF) are named for Indian tribes—(Pawnee, Ute, Sioux).

Seaplane Tenders (AV) are named for sounds—(Salisbury Sound); and for men who pioneered in aviation—(Gurtiss).

Small Seaplane Tenders (AVP) are named for straits, islands, sounds, inlets, and bays of the U.S. and its possessions—(Floyds Bay, Onslow, Suisun, Valcour).

Ocean Radar Station Ships (YAGR) are named for words that indicate their jobs—(Sky Watcher, Guardian).

Large Harbor Tugs (YTB) are named for noted Indians and Indian words—(Pocahontas, Nootka, Ganadoga).

A SALUTE TO THREE SHIPS

ON MAY 13, 1957, the nation and the world paid tribute at Jamestown, Virginia, to the three small ships which brought the first permanent English settlers to our shores. It seems fitting that this volume, dedicated to the ships of the United States Navy, should also salute those ships which, though manned by British seamen and flying the flag of Great Britain, were—we might almost say—the forerunners of the great American Navy of today.

The British Admiralty courteously supplied the plans and the specifications for these three ships. From these plans, exact reproductions of the ships were built at West Norfolk, Virginia. The thousands who have viewed them have marvelled at those men who dared to cross the Atlantic, on a voyage which lasted five months, in sailing vessels no larger than many small, river boats of today. The largest of the three was the 79-foot Susan Constant of 100 tons. The 50-foot Godspeed of 40 tons was next in size. The smallest was the 39-foot Discovery of 20 tons. Though they were rated as merchant ships, they actually were combatant ships, for they carried eight, four, and two cannon, respectively. They were prepared, if necessary, to fight for their right to sail the high seas.

The replicas of the original ships were launched on December 20, 1956, the three hundred fiftieth anniversary of their original departure on the momentous voyage. The sponsor of the Susan Constant was Mrs. Thomas B. Stanley, wife of the Governor of Virginia. The sponsor of the Godspeed was Lady Caccia, wife of the British Ambassador to the United States. The tiny Discovery was christened by Mrs. Lewis Douglas, wife of the Chairman of the English Speaking Union of the United States.

Named for: MAJOR GENERAL CHARLES DODSON BARRETT, U.S.M.C.

Launched: June 27, 1950, at New York Shipbuilding Corp., Camden, N.J., name changed and commissioned in 1952 as President Jackson.

Sponsor: MRS. ALBEN BARKLEY, second wife of the Vice President of the United States.

Charles Dodson Barrett was born in Henderson, Ky., on Aug. 16, 1885. After graduating from high school in Alexandria, Va., in 1909, he was immediately commissioned a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps and ordered to the Marine Officers' School at Port Royal, S.C. In 1914, he landed at Vera Cruz, Mexico with a Marine detachment from the USS New Jersey and participated in the capture of that city.

During World War I, he served with the U. S. Army in France taking part in the Meuse-Argonne offensive and commanding the 2nd Battalion, 367 Infantry at Le Mans. Later he served as adjutant, 4th Brigade of Marines in Germany. After the war, he studied at the Ecole de Guerre in Paris, had duty as instructor at Quantico, sea duty and two years in the War Plans Section in the office of the Chief of Naval Operations.

During World War II, he commanded the 5th Marines, served as Division Marine Officer of Battleship Division 4. Later, he was Director of the Plans and Policies Division and then Assistant to the Commandant of the Marine Corps. In 1942, he was promoted to the grade of major general. While on duty in New Caledonia, he was accidentally killed on October 8, 1942. For his outstanding contribution to planning the Bougainville Campaign he was posthumously awarded the Distinguished Service Medal.

BARRY-4 (DD-933)

Destroyer

The first Bass (SS-164) was launched in 1924.

BAUER (DE-1025) Destroyer Escort

Length: 315 feet Beam: 37 feet

Named for: LIEUTENANT COLONEL HAROLD BAUER, U.S.M.C.

Launched: June 4, 1957, at Bethlehem Pacific Coast Steel Corp., San Francisco, Calif.

Sponsor: MRS. HARRIET ANNE BAUER, widow of Lieutenant Colonel Bauer, for whom the vessel was named.

Harold William Bauer was born on November 20, 1908, at Woodruff, Kan. On graduation from the Naval Academy in 1930, he was appointed a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps. In 1936, after flight training at Pensacola, he was designated Naval Aviator. Upon the outbreak of World War II, he was ordered to Midway with duty as Squadron Commander, thence to Hawaii, and subsequently to the South Pacific in command of Marine Aviation at Guadalcanal. The squadron under his command was officially credited with bagging 92 enemy planes and with helping to sink two enemy destroyers. For his outstanding record, he was commended by the commanders of the Army, the Navy, and the Marine Corps and awarded the Medal of Honor. He was reported missing in action on January 8, 1946.

BIGELOW (DD-942) Destroyer

Length: 418 feet Beam: 45 feet

Named for: WATER TENDER, 1ST CLASS, ELMER C. BIGELOW, U.S.N.R.

Launched: February 2, 1957, at Bath Iron Works Corp., Bath, Me.

Sponsor: MRS. VERNA B. PERRY, mother of Elmer C. Bigelow, for whom the vessel was named.

Elmer Charles Bigelow was born on July 12, 1920, at Hebron, Ill. In 1942, he enlisted in the Naval Reserve and served in various capacities until February 15, 1945, when he met death while serving on board USS Fletcher off Corregidor. When an enemy shell hit the ship, he rushed below plunging through blinding, acrid smoke which seared his lungs. He managed to extinguish a blazing fire in the magazine hatch, thus averting an explosion that would further damage the stricken ship. By his prompt action, in the face of almost certain death, he courageously gave his life in the service of his country. He was posthumously awarded the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry.

BITTERN (MHC-43) Minehunter, Coastal

Length: 144 feet Beam: 28 feet

Launched: December 19, 1956 at Bethlehem Steel Corp., Quincy, Mass.

Sponsor: MRS. JOHN M. LEE, daughter of Admiral Blandy, for whom the vessel was named.

Wm. Henry Purnell Blandy was born on June 28, 1890, in New York, N.Y. He attended Delaware College before entering the Naval Academy from which he graduated with distinction in 1913. He served in USS Florida during the occupation of Vera Cruz in 1914 and continued service in her while she operated with the British Fleet in the North Sea during World War I. In 1919, when he was attached to the Bureau of Ordnance, he specialized in gun design and contributed much to their manufacture and uses. Prior to 1923, he was Assistant Fire Control Officer of USS New Mexico, Executive Officer of USS Vega and USS Pruitt. After serving in Cavite, P. I., he served as Gunnery Officer of USS New Mexico and USS West Virginia. In 1930, he was a member of the U. S. Naval Mission to Brazil. He then headed up the Gunnery Section, Division of Fleet Training. Later he assumed command of USS Utah, a battleship which had been converted into a target ship for anti-aircraft gunnery. The experience he gained in evaluating various types of air attacks and our defenses against them served him in good stead when, in 1941, he became Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, a duty involving development and manufacture of all weapons for our rapidly expanding Navy. For exceptionally distinguished service while on this duty, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal. As Commander, Group 1, Amphibious Force, Pacific Fleet, he participated in the operations at Kwajalein, Saipan, Paula Islands, Iwo Jima, and Okinawa for which he was awarded two Gold Stars in lieu of two more Distinguished Service Medals. In 1946, he was designated Commander, Joint Army-Navy Task Force 1 to conduct the atom bomb tests at Bikini for which service he received a third Gold Star. He died on January 12, 1954, at St. Albans Naval Hospital, N.Y.

Sponsor: MRS. PORTER HARDY, JR., wife of Congressman Hardy of Virginia.

BONEFISH-2 (SS-582) Submarine

Length: 219 feet Beam: 29 feet

Named for: A fish and the former Bonefish.

Launched: November 22, 1958, at New York Shipbuilding Corp., Camden, New Jersey.

Commander Edge was awarded the Bronze Star Medal and the Navy Cross as commanding officer of the Bonefish-1 during her fifth and sixth war patrols and was posthumously awarded a Gold Star in lieu of a third Navy Cross for heroic service during her eighth patrol on which he was lost.

The first Bonefish (SS-223) which was launched on March 7, 1943, received seven Battle Stars for her operations in the Pacific. She was presumably lost on July 30, 1945, while on her eighth patrol.

BONITA-3 (SSK-3) Anti-submarine Submarine

Length: 196 feet Beam: 25 feet

Named for: A fish and the former Bonita.

Launched: June 21, 1951 at Naval Shipyard, Vallejo, Calif.

Sponsor: MRS. JAMES S. CLARK, widow of Lieutenant Commander Clark, U.S.N., commanding officer of the Golet (SS-361) lost in World War II.

The first Bonita, a vessel of 76 tons, was purchased in 1846 and sold in 1849.

The second Bonita was a submarine renamed C-4.

The third Bonita (SS-165) was launched in 1925 and sold in 1945.

BRIDGET (DE-1024) Escort Destroyer

Launched: April 25, 1956, at Puget Sound Bridge and Dredging Co., Seattle, Wash.

Sponsor: MRS. FRANCIS J. BRIDGET, widow of Commander Bridget, for whom the vessel was named.

Francis Joseph Bridget was born on August 2, 1897, in Washington, D.C. He graduated from the Naval Academy in 1921 and was designated Naval Aviator in 1929. After serving in several ships, his first aviation service was in USS Lexington. Later, he served in the Office of the Inspector Naval Aircraft in New York, in the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations in Washington and as Naval Attache at the U. S. Embassy in Tokyo. He attended the Post Graduate School at Annapolis for a course in aeronautical engineering followed by instruction at the California Institute of Technology, where he obtained a Master of Science degree.

In 1940, he assumed command of Patrol Squadron 14, and for a short time after that was in command of a seaplane tender. In August 1941, he joined the staff of Patrol Squadron 10 where he was serving when the attack on Pearl Harbor took place. As most of the planes of his squadron were destroyed, he joined General MacArthur at Bataan. For his services there, he was awarded not only the Navy Cross but also the Army Silver Star. On June 17, 1943, he was made a prisoner and on December 15, 1944, he was lost on board a Japanese prison ship which was sunk off Olongapo, P. I. For his services to the 800 prisoners on board that ship, he was posthumously awarded the Legion of Merit.

He received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Minnesota and his Degree in Law from Loyola University, Chicago, Ill. He was later admitted to the bar in both Minnesota and Illinois. In 1940, he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps. After training in San Diego, he served ten months in Iceland and then was placed in command of a company of the 1st Marine Division serving on Guadalcanal. While there, his division and its officers were awarded a Presidential Unit Citation. His next combat action was with the 6th Marine Division at Okinawa, where he was killed in action in July 1945. He was posthumously awarded the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry at Okinawa on May 14 and 15, 1945 for leading his men more by example than by command. By inspiring them by his courage, he was able to take a strategic hill that contributed to the success of the Okinawa campaign.

CROMWELL (DE-1014) Escort Destroyer

Length: 315 feet Beam: 37 feet

Named for: CAPTAIN JOHN P. CROMWELL, U.S.N.

Launched: June 4, 1954 at Bath Iron Works Corp., Bath, Me.

Sponsor: MISS ANN CROMWELL, daughter of Captain Cromwell, for whom the vessel was named.

John Philip Cromwell was born on September 11, 1901, in Henry, Ill. He graduated from the Naval Academy in 1924 and then served on several ships before being ordered to New London for submarine training which he completed in 1927. He then served on board several submarines, had duty at the Pearl Harbor Submarine Base, and with the Bureau of Engineering, and the Bureau of Ships in Washington.

In May 1941, he joined the staff of Commander Submarines, Pacific Fleet, and was serving in that capacity when the United States entered World War II. After that, he assumed command of several submarine divisions. His pennant was flying on USS Sculpin (SS-191) when it was sunk after attacking a convoy near Truck Island.

As wolfpack leader, he had been given the general plan of operations. After the Japanese ship Yokohama had reduced USS Sculpin to shambles and Captain Cromwell ordered her scuttled and her crew to abandon ship, he said, "I can't go with you. I know too much." He was last seen seated alone in the control room. For his services in the Pacific, he was posthumously awarded the Legion of Merit and the Medal of Honor. Part of the citation for the latter reads: "Constantly vigilant and precise in carrying out secret orders, he sacrificed himself rather than risk capture and the subsequent danger of revealing plans under Japanese torture or drugs, stoically remaining aboard his ship as she plunged to her death."

Samuel Francis DuPont was born on September 27, 1803, at Bergen Point, N.J., and was appointed a midshipman at the age of twelve in 1815. He advanced through the various grades until he attained the rank of rear admiral in 1862. Through the years, he served with the Mediterranean Squadron, in the West Indies, off the coast of California during the Mexican War, and in the Orient. During the Civil War, he served on the Conference Commission which planned naval operations and later as Commander, South Atlantic Blockading Squadron. In the center of DuPont Circle in Washington, D.C., was once a statue erected in his honor. The fountain which has replaced it, now bears an inscription which tells of his prowess. He died on July 23, 1865.

Two former Navy vessels have been named in his honor: torpedo boat No. 7 and a destroyer, the DD-152.

Launched: July 18, 1958, at Bethlehem Steel Co., Quincy, Mass.

Sponsor: MRS. HARRY D. FELT, wife of Admiral Felt, U.S.N.

David Glasgow Farragut was born on July 5, 1801, at Campbells Station, near Knoxville, Tenn., and was appointed a midshipman in 1810. He first served on board the frigate Essex. At the age of twelve, he was made master of a prize ship and sailed her successfully to Valparaiso, Chile. Later, he served on the Brazil station, in Washington, saw service in the Mexican War, and established the Mare Island Navy Yard in 1854.

At the outbreak of the Civil War, he chose to remain with the Union rather than to go with his native state. His most brilliant victory in that war was the Battle of Mobile Bay. In 1864, the grade of vice admiral was created for him by the President. Congress commissioned him, in 1866, in the rank of admiral, the first officer in the U. S. Navy to hold that rank.

It has been written of him—"His life, many believe, was the ideal of what a naval commander's should be, proving that kindness, honor, love of family and friends are not incompatible with discipline and greatness as a warrior." The secret of his success was straight thinking and determined action. "Be sure you are right, then go ahead." He died on August 14, 1868, at Portsmouth, N.H.

The first Farragut, a torpedo boat, was launched in 1898 and sold in 1919.

The second Farragut (DD-300) a torpedo boat destroyer, was launched in 1918 and scrapped in 1930.

Launched: Feb. 5, 1955, at Bath Iron Works, Corp. Bath, Me.

Sponsor: MRS. FORREST P. SHERMAN, widow of Admiral Sherman, for whom the vessel was named.

Forrest Percival Sherman was born on October 30, 1896, in Merrimack, N.H. At the Naval Academy, from which he graduated in 1918, he stood second in his class of 199 members and was awarded several honors. During World War I, he served in USS Nashville in Mediterranean waters. In 1922, he reported at Pensacola for air training and was designated a Naval Aviator on December 22, 1922. Thereafter, he served in the aircraft carriers USS Lexington and USS Saratoga; as instructor at the Naval Academy; in the Bureau of Ordnance; and as a member of the Permanent Joint Board on Defense. He assumed command of USS Wasp (CV-7) in May 1942 and was in command of that carrier when she was sunk by enemy action in the Solomon Islands and he himself was wounded. Following this, he served as Chief of Staff, Commander Air Force Pacific, and was present on board the USS Missouri in Tokyo Bay when the formal Japanese surrender was signed.

Following the Japanese surrender, he became Deputy Chief of Naval Operations, was ordered as Commander U. S. Naval Forces in the Mediterranean, and on November 2, 1949, was appointed Chief of Naval Operations, being the youngest man ever appointed to that post. He was on a military-diplomatic mission to Europe at the time of his death in Naples, Italy, on July 22, 1951.

He was awarded the Navy Cross, the Legion of Merit, and the Distinguished Service Medal. The citation for the latter reads, in part: "As head of the War Plans Division, he contributed essentially to the successful prosecution of the war in the Pacific, and rendered distinguished service to the preparation of the plans and the coordination of our campaigns to bring about the capitulation of the Gilberts, Marshalls, Marianas, Western Carolines, Iwo Jima, Okinawa, and our final attacks on Japan.

He was also decorated by France, Great Britain, Greece, and Italy.

FORRESTAL (CVA-59)

Aircraft Carrier

Length: 1046 feet Beam: 236 feet

Named for: JAMES VINCENT FORRESTAL, the first Secretary of Defense.

Launched: Dec. 11, 1954, at Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co., Newport News, Va.

Sponsor: MRS. JAMES V. FORRESTAL, widow of Secretary of Defense Forrestal, for whom the vessel was named.

James Vincent Forrestal was born on February 15, 1892, in Beacon, N.Y. After graduating from high school at the age of sixteen, he worked on newspapers for several years to save money for college. He enrolled at Dartmouth College in 1912, but the following year transferred to Princeton University where he was chairman of the Daily Princetonian. He did not graduate because of lack of funds but, just before he left Princeton, he was voted "The man most likely to succeed." After 1915, he worked for brief intervals with several firms finally joining the banking firm of Wm. A. Read—subsequently Dillon, Read and Co.—as a bond salesman. During World War I, he enlisted in the Navy and was commissioned a Naval Aviator in 1917. After the war, he resumed his former banking connection where he remained for several years. On the death of Chas. Dillon, James Forrestal, at the age of 45, became President of Dillon, Read and Co.

Under the presidency of Franklin D. Roosevelt, he served as Administrative Assistant, as Under Secretary of the Navy, and then, upon the death of Frank Knox, as Secretary of the Navy. During his years of public service, he did much to speed up the building of the two-ocean Navy by helping solve the raw material by introducing the Controlled Material Plan and sound business methods.

Following the war, he advocated the maintenance of military strength urging "that peace without power to enforce it must remain an empty dream." When the Army-Navy unification was approved by Congress, he became the first Secretary of Defense from which office he resigned in 1949. In April of that year, he was admitted to the Naval Hospital in Bethesda suffering from nervous exhaustion brought about by excessive war and postwar work. He took his own life on May 22, 1949. His death was as much of a war casualty as if he had been killed in action.

Roy Stanley Geiger was born on January 25, 1885, in Middleburg, Fla. He graduated from Stetson University and enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1907. After serving on board several ships, he was in Nicaragua in 1912 participating in the capture of Coyotepe and Barranca. Later, he served in the Philippines and China. In 1917, he was designated Naval Aviator. For distinguished service in leading bombing raids during World War I, he was awarded the Navy Cross.

Between the two World Wars, he served in Haiti, London, Quantico, Washington and Newport. In 1942, he led the first Marine Aircraft Wing at Guadalcanal and was awarded a Gold Star in lieu of a second Navy Cross for extraordinary heroism. He was recalled, in 1943, to Marine Corps Headquarters to become Director of Aviation but soon returned to the war theater as General, Commanding the 1st Marine Amphibious Corps. He led that unit in the Bougainville operation for which action he received the Navy Distinguished Service Medal. He led that same corps—redesignated 3rd—in the recapture of Guam and the capture of the southern Palau Islands. Two additional Gold Stars in lieu of a second and a third Distinguished Service Medal attested to his valor in these operations. For a fourth time, he led the same men, as part of the 10th Army at Okinawa. Here, on the death in action of Lieutenant General Simon Bolivar Buckner, the commanding general, he assumed command and led that Army to the successful conclusion of World War II's final campaign. He was the first Marine officer to lead an Army. He died on January 23, 1947, at Bethesda, Md., and was posthumously promoted, by the 80th Congress, to the grade of general.

U.S.S. CONSTITUTION, OLD IRONSIDES

years, he commanded USS Falcon, the first ship to be converted for submarine rescue work. His services in salvaging submarines won him the Distinguished Service Medal and the Navy Cross. In 1928, at the Washington Navy Yard, he established the Diving School.

From 1932 to 1934, he served as Executive Officer of USS Constitution which was originally built in 1798 and reconstructed by public subscription. He was given this assignment because of his knowledge of sailing. He took "Old Ironsides" to ports in Mexico, the Canal Zone, California, and then returned to Boston. Incidentally, USS Constitution was the first ship in the Navy to be christened. The ceremony occurred on October 20, 1797, and a man, Captain James Sevier, "broke a bottle of wine over the bow of the frigate."

Later, he returned to USS Falcon as technical aide and participated in the successful salvage of USS Squalus and the rescue of the surviving crew members of this submarine which had sunk to a depth of 240 feet. For distinguished services for participating in the invasion of Sicily, he was awarded the Legion of Merit with a Combat V; a Gold Star in lieu of a second Legion of Merit for his services with the Fleet Operation Training Command, Atlantic; and a second Gold Star in lieu of a third Legion of Merit for his distinguished services as Commanding Officer of USS Chester during the assaults on Marcus Island, Wake, Iwo Jima, Okinawa, and Leyte.

Upon his retirement on May 1, 1947, he was promoted to the grade of rear admiral. He died at the Naval Hospital, Bethesda, Md., on March 6, 1953.

HOOPER (DE-1026)

Escort DestroyerLength: 315 feet Beam: 37 feet*Named for:* REAR ADMIRAL STANFORD C. HOOPER, U.S.N.Launched: Aug. 1, 1957, at Bethlehem Pacific Coast Steel Corp., San Francisco, Calif.Sponsor: MISS ELIZABETH HOOPER, daughter of Rear Admiral Hooper, for whom the vessel was named.

Stanford Caldwell Hooper was born on August 16, 1884, in Colton, Calif. He graduated from the Naval Academy in 1905 and was promoted progressively to the grade of rear admiral in 1938. After being commissioned, he served seven years at sea and then was ordered to the Naval Academy as an instructor where he became interested in the, then new, science of "wireless." In 1912, he was officially appointed Fleet Radio Officer and, as such, organized radio communications in the Navy. At the outbreak of World War I, he was sent to Europe as radio observer. Upon his return to the United States in 1915, he was appointed head of the Radio Division, Bureau of Engineering. He was the guiding spirit in the development of radio into the efficient communication medium it has become. He established the worldwide chain of shore stations which furnished communications between the Navy ashore and the fleet at sea.

After the entrance of the United States in World War I, he served in USS Fairfax on convoy duty. He was awarded the Navy Cross "for important, exacting, and hazardous duty in patrolling waters infested with submarines and mines, and protecting troop convoys and supplies."

During World War II, he was Chairman of the Army-Navy Committee Joint-effort Areas and Communication Centers as well as General Navy Consultant for radio, sonar, and radar.

In his long years of service, mostly in radio communications, he was awarded many honors. Among them were Chevalier of the French Legion of Honor; Medal of Honor of the Institute of Radio Engineers; Medal of Merit of the Veteran Wireless Operators Association; Honorary Diploma from the Aerial League of America; Elliot Cresson Gold Medal from the Franklin Institute for "discovery or original research adding to the sum total of human knowledge and in recognition of his pioneering leadership and utilization of discovery in the field of radio."

The Navy's Electronic Trophy which is awarded annually is named The Admiral S. C. Hooper Trophy in his honor.

He died on April 6, 1955, at Miami Beach, Fla.

HULL-5 (DD-945)

DestroyerLength: 418 feet Beam: 45 feet*Named for:* COMMODORE ISAAC HULL, U.S.N., and the four former Hulls.

Launched: Aug. 10, 1957, at Bath Iron Works Corp., Bath, Me.
Sponsor: MRS. ALBERT G. MUMMA, wife of Rear Admiral Mumma, U.S.N.

Isaac Hull was born on March 9, 1773, in Derby, Conn. He served gallantly in USS Constitution during the Quasi War with France. Then in the sloop Sally he captured the fort at Spanish Harbor, San Domingo, and the sloop Sandwich. The report of this exploit said "No enterprise of like moment was ever better accomplished." He served in Tripoli and, in 1812, when in command of USS Constitution, forced HMS Guerrière to strike her colors which gained the name "Old Ironsides" for the Constitution. He died on February 13, 1843, in Philadelphia, Pa.

The first Hull was a side-wheeler purchased in New York in September 1862. She served on the Atlantic coast during the Civil War and participated in the engagement with the Confederate ram Albemarle. She was sold in 1865.

The second Hull was a coast torpedo vessel which was launched in 1902. She served as escort to the Great White Fleet. She was de-commissioned in 1912 and re-commissioned in 1917 seeing service in World War I. She was sold in 1921.

The third Hull was a destroyer which was launched in 1921. She sounded the route for the Alaskan cable and was stricken from the Navy list in 1930.

The fourth Hull was a destroyer which was at Pearl Harbor at the time of the Japanese attack but suffered little damage. During World War II, she saw service in the Pacific until lost in a typhoon in 1944 near the Philippines.

INDEPENDENCE-4 (CVA-62) Attack Aircraft Carrier

Length: 1046 feet Beam: 236 feet

Named for: The three former Independences.

Launched: June 6, 1958, at New York Naval Shipyard, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Sponsor: MRS. THOMAS S. GATES, wife of Secretary of the Navy Gates.

The first Independence, a Continental sloop purchased in 1776, was wrecked off the coast of North Carolina in 1778.

The second Independence was a ship-of-the-line launched in 1814 and scrapped to recover needed metal fittings in 1915.

The third Independence (CVL-22) was converted into an aircraft carrier from the hull of the cruiser Amsterdam. She rendered valiant service at Marcus, Waek Island, Tarawa, and Palau during World War II for which she received eight Battle Stars. She was one of the target vessels for the atomic tests at Bikini where she withstood two explosions. Though badly damaged, she survived and was used for subsequent research. In January 1951, she was sunk off the coast of California in tests of new aerial and undersea weapons.

Launched: May 7, 1955, at Bath Iron Works Corp., Bath, Me.

Sponsor: MRS. ROBERT B. CARNEY, wife of Admiral Carney, U.S.N.

Commodore John Paul Jones, often spoken of as "the father of the U. S. Navy," was born in Scotland in 1747. His original name was John Paul, adding the Jones after he settled in Virginia. Having been a sailor in his youth and ardently embracing the cause of American colonies, he offered his services when Congress in 1775 resolved to fit out a naval force.

He performed bold exploits when he cruised along the British coast in an 18-gun brig and, in 1779, was put in command of five vessels which again cruised along the coast of Great Britain. "The modern histories give but a brief mention to John Paul Jones, our great Revolutionary sea fighter. Yet he gave the young American Navy what has been called 'a baptism of glory' when his ship, the Bonhomme Richard, was attacked by the British warship Serapis. When the Richard was sinking, the captain of the Serapis called upon Jones to surrender. Cried Jones, "I have not yet begun to fight!" and went on to complete victory.

Paul Jones attended one of the earliest recorded launchings, that of the America built in 1782 and later presented to the French government. After the Revolution, he served for a short time in the Russian Navy. He died in Paris in 1792.

On August 15, 1953, a commemorative plaque was unveiled at his birthplace in Scotland. At the time, the Dumfries and Galloway News reported "In the presence of what was described as probably the most distinguished company of men that has ever been gathered together in Galloway, a commemorative plaque to John Paul Jones, America's greatest naval hero, was unveiled at the Kirkbean cottage where he was born 206 years ago.

"Visitors from far and near converged on the cottage for the ceremony and heard such distinguished Americans as the Hon. Winthrop Aldrich, U. S. Ambassador, and Vice Admiral Jerauld Wright, C. in C., U. S. Naval Forces, Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean, as well as Scotland's Minister of State, the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Home, pay tribute to the memory of the Kirkbean lad who was destined to become the greatest naval hero in American history. Said the Earl 'If during his naval career Paul Jones caused fear and apprehension in this country we, his Scottish heirs, gladly admit that in founding the American Navy he has atoned a thousandfold'."

A living link with the American naval hero was provided by the presence of 24-year-old Sub-Lieutenant Loudon Richardson of the British Navy, a great-great-grandnephew of Commodore John Paul Jones.

Ever since the plaque was placed on the house where "the father of the U. S. Navy" was born, it has become a place of pilgrimage for Americans. In September 1956, a party of naval officers and men headed by Commander Robert W. Hayler, Jr., U.S.N., paid a visit to the shrine and presented to the people of Kirkcudbright a silver tray and a bronze copy of the emblem of USS John Paul Jones. At this time, they saw the gravestone erected by John Paul Jones in memory of his father who died in 1767. Later they also presented a bronze plaque to the Scottish United Services in Edinburgh Castle.

The first John Paul Jones was an 863-ton paddle-steamer of 6 guns, built in 1863 and sold in 1867.

The second Paul Jones, Jr. was a 30-ton motor launch.

The third Paul Jones was a destroyer commissioned on July 19, 1902. It served through World War I during the latter part of which she acted as convoy escort. In 1918, she transferred 1,250 men from the stricken USS Henderson to the USS Van Steuben. She was sold in 1919.

The fourth John Paul Jones was launched on September 30, 1920. After commissioning, she was part of the Atlantic Fleet. In 1923, she joined the Asiatic Fleet. As flagship of Destroyer Squadron 29, Asiatic Fleet, she heard the news of Pearl Harbor at Borneo. She served throughout World War II, receiving two Battle Stars for participation in engagements at Guam, Makassar Straits, Java Sea, and near the Netherland East Indies. In 1947, she was sold for peacetime use.

U.S.S. JOHN PAUL JONES (DD-922) DESTROYER

Sponsor: Mrs. Robert B. Carney

Sponsor: MRS. JOHN R. PERRY, widow of Rear Admiral Perry, (CEC), U.S.N. for whom the vessel was named.

John Richard Perry was born on May 24, 1899, in Waco Texas. After attending Rice Institute and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, he enlisted in the Navy. Soon thereafter, he was appointed to the Naval Academy from which he graduated in 1933. Subsequently, he attended Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and was awarded both his bachelor's and master's degrees in civil engineering. His exceptional ability in this field was used extensively during the war. In 1942, he was awarded the Legion of Merit for his success, despite numerous difficulties, in the tremendous task of training 70,000 men for the Navy Construction Battalions for duty at advanced bases.

He served in the Pacific area with the construction forces and was awarded a Gold Star in lieu of a second Legion of Merit for exceptional service in the Leyte-Samar area. In 1951, he assumed command of the Naval Construction Center at Port Hueneme, Calif., and in the same year was promoted to the grade of rear admiral. He died at the Bethesda Medical Center on September 25, 1955.

JOHN S. McCAIN (DL-3)

Frigate

Length: 493 feet Beam: 50 feet

Named for: ADMIRAL JOHN S. McCAIN, U.S.N.

Launched: July 12, 1952, at Bath Iron Works Corp., Bath, Me.

Sponsor: MRS. JOHN S. McCAIN, JR., daughter-in-law of Admiral McCain, for whom the vessel was named, and the wife of Captain John S. McCain, Jr., U.S.N.

John Sidney McCain was born on August 9, 1884, in Teoc, Miss. He attended the University of Mississippi before entering the Naval Academy from which he graduated in 1906. At the age of 51, after serving on several ships, he took flight training at the Naval Air Station at Pensacola and received his wings in August 1936. After that, he served as Commander Air Force Base in Panama, as Commanding Officer Naval Air Station at San Diego, as Commander Aircraft Scouting Force, as Commander Patrol Wings, Pacific Fleet, and in 1942, as Commander Aircraft South Pacific Fleet. For these services he received the Distinguished Service Medal.

In Washington, in 1943, he served as Deputy Chief of Operations (Air) with the rank of vice admiral. One year later, he became Commander, 2nd Carrier Task Force, Pacific Fleet, which under his command was in almost continuous action during the remainder of the war. This famed Task Force 38 and 58 were still pounding at targets at the close of hostilities. On August 14, 1945, when the cease fire order came, its airmen were over Tokyo for the third time in five days. "For extraordinary heroism and meritorious service in a position of great responsibility" during these years of war service, he was awarded the Navy Cross and several Gold Stars in lieu of additional Distinguished Service Medals. In September 1945, after witnessing the Japanese surrender, he flew home and a few hours after his arrival was dead. His death was attributed to war exhaustion. Admiral Marc Mitscher said, "I think that too much credit for our complete and final victory cannot be attributed to his leadership."

JOHN WILLIS (DE-1027) Escort Destroyer

Length: 315 feet Beam: 37 feet

Named for: PHARMACIST'S MATE 1ST CLASS, JOHN H. WILLIS, U.S.N.

Launched: Feb. 4, 1956, at New York Shipbuilding Corp., Camden, N.J.

Sponsor: MRS. WINFREY M. DUKE, before her remarriage she was the widow of John H. Willis, for whom the vessel was named.

John Harlan Willis was born on June 10, 1921, in Columbia, Tenn. Upon graduating from high school, he enlisted in the Navy in 1940. After undergoing training in the Hospital Corps, he served at the Naval Hospitals at Parris Island, Jacksonville, and Norfolk. In 1943, he joined the Field Medical School Battalion and the following year was transferred to the Fleet Marine Force, Oceanside, Calif. In December of that year, he embarked for Iwo Jima where he was killed in action on February 28, 1945. For his heroic actions under intense Japanese fire, while he himself was severely wounded, he was posthumously awarded the Medal of Honor.

JONAS INGRAM (DD-938) Destroyer

Length: 418 feet Beam: 45 feet

Named for: ADMIRAL JONAS INGRAM, U.S.N.

Launched: Aug. 7, 1956, at Bethlehem Steel Corp., Quincy, Mass.

Sponsor: MRS. LAWRENCE C. HAYS, JR., daughter of Admiral Ingram, for whom the vessel was named.

Jonas Howard Ingram was born on October 15, 1886, in Jeffersonville, Ind. He entered the Naval Academy in 1903 and graduated in 1907. While there, he was both a member of the football team and of the crew. In football, he made the touchdown which enabled Navy to beat Army for the first time in seven years. During his senior year at the Naval Academy, he stroked the Navy crew. He was successively promoted until he reached the grade of rear admiral in 1941.

In 1914, while serving in USS Arkansas, he was awarded the Medal of Honor for distinguished service at Vera Cruz. From 1915 to 1917, he served as head football coach at the Naval Academy.

During World War I, he served as aide to Admiral Rodman and was present at the German naval surrender in the North Sea. He was awarded the Navy Cross for distinguished service during these years.

In World War II, he served as Commander Task Force 3, as Commander 4th Fleet, and Commander South Atlantic Forces. In the latter assignment, he was responsible for building one of the world's largest air-bases on desolate Ascension Island, virtually in the middle of the Atlantic. From this base, bombers operated as "U-boat killers." For his services during this war, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal and two Gold Stars. He died on November 3, 1954.

JOSEPH K. TAUSSIG (DE-1030) Escort Destroyer

Length: 315 feet Beam: 37 feet

Named for: VICE ADMIRAL JOSEPH K. TAUSSIG, U.S.N.

Launched: Mar. 9, 1957, at New York Shipbuilding Corp., Camden, N.J.

Sponsor: MRS. JOSEPH K. TAUSSIG, widow of Admiral Taussig, for whom the vessel was named.

Joseph Knefler Taussig, son of Rear Admiral E. D. Taussig, U.S.N., was born on August 30, 1877, in Dresden, Germany. He was appointed to the Naval Academy, where he was an outstanding athlete, by President Cleveland and graduated in 1899. While a naval cadet serving on board USS New York, he participated in the Battle of Santiago.

In 1899, while serving on USS Newark, he took part in the Allied Peking Relief Expedition. For conspicuous conduct in a battle near Tientsin, China, he was advanced four numbers in rank by an Act of Congress. Also, in 1900, he was awarded the Life Saving Medal for rescuing a shipmate at Yokohama. During his early years of service, he had duties on land and at sea, including acting as aide to his father and to Admiral Vreeland.

For his World War I service, during which he commanded Destroyer Divisions 6 and 8, Atlantic, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal. Though retired when World War II broke out, he was recalled to active duty in the Navy Department. He received the Legion of Merit in reward for the valuable services which he rendered. He died on October 29, 1947.

OilerLength: 655 feet Beam: 86 feet*Named for:* A river in Indiana.Launched: June 12, 1954, at New York Shipbuilding Corp., Camden, N.J.Sponsor: MRS. JERAULD WRIGHT, wife of Admiral Wright, U.S.N.

MITSCHER (DL-2)

FrigateLength: 493 feet Beam: 50 feet*Named for:* ADMIRAL MARC ANDREW MITSCHER, U.S.N.Launched: Dec. 29, 1951, at Bath Iron Works Corp., Bath, Me.Sponsor: MRS. MARC A. MITSCHER, widow of Admiral Mitscher, for whom the vessel was named.

Marc Andrew Mitscher was born on January 26, 1887, in Hillsboro, Wis., and graduated from the Naval Academy in 1910. He served on six ships prior to 1915 when he reported for aviation training on board USS North Carolina. This ship was one of the first to carry an airplane. In 1916, he was designated a Naval Aviator. During World War I, he served in USS Huntington and at two naval air stations.

In 1919, he was the pilot of one of the three planes that took off from Newfoundland for England. Although his plane came down in a fog near the Azores, he was awarded the Navy Cross for this pioneer effort.

After that, he served in the Bureau of Aeronautics and in USS Wright and USS Saratoga. After the commissioning of USS Hornet (CV-8), he assumed command of that vessel for her short but illustrious career. The USS Hornet was the "Shangri-la" from which Colonel James Doolittle took off to bomb Japan, 800 miles away.

Before USS Hornet was sunk, in 1942, he was made Commander Patrol Wing 2, and then Fleet Air Commander, Solomon Islands. For this service, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal and a Gold Star in lieu of a second Distinguished Service Medal for "Exceptionally meritorious services as Commander Carrier Division Three." In 1944, he assumed command of Task Force 58, which operated alternately with Task Force 38. For this service, he received an additional Gold Star. A Gold Star in lieu of a second Navy Cross was awarded him as Commander Task Force 38 during the Battle of Leyte Gulf for "masterfully planned and executed blows against the Japanese Fleet." A third Gold Star went to him as Commander Task Force 58 for operations at Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

In 1945, he served as Deputy Chief of Naval Operations (Air) until assigned command of the Eighth Fleet. At the time of his death, on February 3, 1947, in the Naval Hospital in Norfolk, he was Commander in Chief of the Atlantic Fleet.

MIZAR-2 (T-AK-272)

Cargo ShipLength: 266 feet Beam: 35 feet*Named for:* A northern star.Launched: Oct. 7, 1957, at Avondale Marine Ways, Inc., Avondale, La.Sponsor: MRS. ROLAND N. SMOOT, wife of Rear Admiral Smoot, U.S.N.

The first Mizar (AF-12) was acquired from the Maritime Commission on June 2, 1941, and commissioned on June 14, 1941. She was returned to the owners on April 1, 1946.

MONTICELLO (LSD-35) Dock Landing ShipLength: 510 feet Beam: 84 feet*Named for:* The home of President Thomas Jefferson, Charlottesville, Va.Launched: Aug. 10, 1956, at Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp., Pascagoula, Miss.Sponsor: MRS. HARRY R. SHEPPARD, wife of Congressman Sheppard of California.

MORTON (DD-948)

DestroyerLength: 418 feet Beam: 45 feet*Named for:* COMMANDER DUDLEY W. MORTON, U.S.N.Launched: May 23, 1958, at Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp., Pascagoula, Miss.Sponsor: MISS EDWINA R. MORTON, daughter of Commander Morton, for whom the vessel was named.

Dudley Walker Morton was born on July 17, 1907, in Owensboro, Ky. He graduated from the Naval Academy, where he was on the varsity football team and the wrestling squad, in 1930. In 1933, he was ordered to the Submarine School in New London, Conn., and subsequently served on board several submarines. In November 1942, he assumed command of USS Wahoo (SS-238) and for his outstanding performance of duty was awarded the Navy Cross with three Gold Stars in lieu of a second, third, and fourth Navy Cross.

Admiral Chester Nimitz awarded him the second Gold Star on board the USS Wahoo at Pearl Harbor in 1943. The citation read, in part, "For distinctive performance in combat, fighting a fourteen-hour battle against an armed enemy convoy and destroying the entire force." Commander Morton is credited with sinking 31,890 tons of enemy shipping. Much of it was due to an ingeniously devised chart of little-known hostile waters where he displayed fearless initiative. He was reported missing in action when the USS Wahoo was presumably sunk on November 1, 1943, in the Sea of Japan.

MSC's—MINESWEEPERS, COASTAL

The following unnamed, numbered Minesweepers, Coastal, are stationed in various strategic locations around the world. They are 144 feet in length and have a beam of 28 feet. For missing numbers, look under the named ships as many were named for birds.

These unnamed MSC's were built and launched as U. S. Navy ships, but when completed were transferred to foreign countries under the Mutual Defense Assistance Program. They are still carried on the list of naval vessels.

The missing numbers MSC's 172 through 189, 210 through 217, and 222 through 254 are those assigned vessels built in foreign countries under the Mutual Defense Assistance Program.

MULLINNIX (DD-944)

Destroyer

Length: 418 feet Beam: 37 feet

Named for: REAR ADMIRAL HENRY M. MULLINNIX, U.S.N.

Launched: Mar. 18, 1957, at Bethlehem Steel Co., Quincy, Mass.

Sponsor: MRS. HENRY M. MULLINNIX, widow of Admiral Mullinnix, for whom the vessel was named.

Henry Maston Mullinnix was born on July 4, 1892, in Spencer, Ind. He attended Purdue University before entering the Naval Academy from which he graduated, with honors, in 1916. Previous to his flight training at Pensacola, he was an aeronautical student at the Post Graduate School in Annapolis. Later, he received his degree as Master of Science from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He was designated Naval Aviator in 1924.

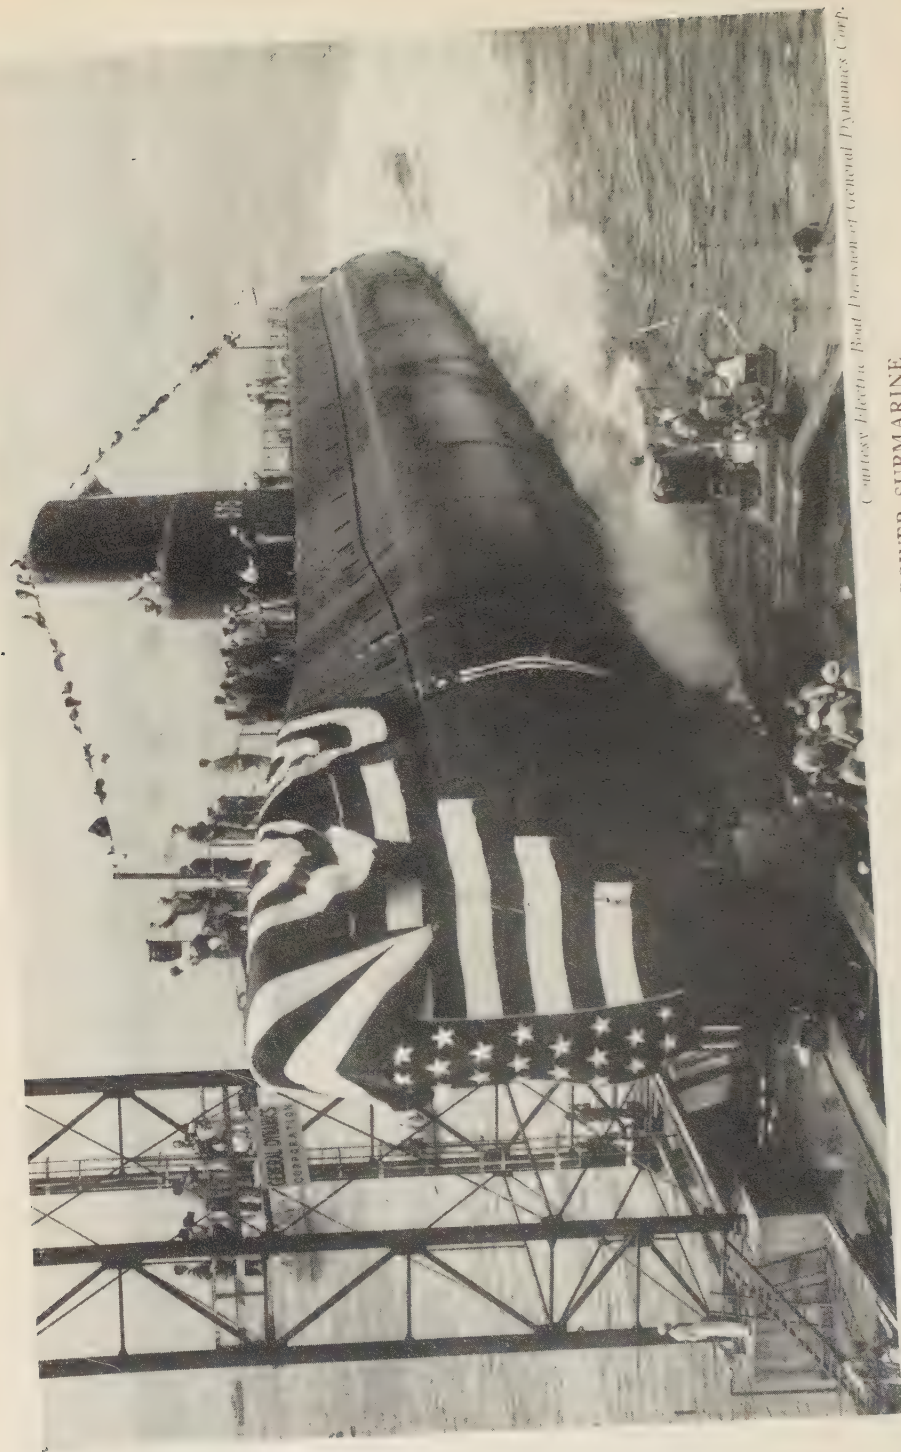

Though he served on board a number of ships and had important shore assignments, he was most closely associated with the aircraft carrier USS Saratoga (CV-3), having had duty in connection with her fitting out, and serving in her in various executive capacities after her commissioning. In 1930, he commanded Bomber Squadron 2 which was based on that vessel. In 1943, he assumed command of her and remained her commanding officer until he reached the grade of rear admiral and was ordered to command of a carrier division.

As Task Force Commander, he was flying his flag in USS Lipscomb Bay (CVE-56) when that ship was torpedoed and sunk by enemy action off Makin Island on November 24, 1943. Admiral Mullinnix was reported missing in action. For exceptionally meritorious service, he was awarded the Legion of Merit. In addition, an airfield on Tarawa and this destroyer were named in his honor.

NAUTILUS-4 (ss(N)-571) Nuclear Powered Submarine

Length: 320 feet Beam: 38 feet

Named for: Three vessels which previously bore the name.

Launched: Jan. 21, 1954, at Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp., Groton, Conn.

Sponsor: MRS. DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, wife of the President of the United States.

The first Nautilus was a schooner purchased in 1803 and captured by the British in 1812.

The second Nautilus was a submarine launched in 1913 and sold in 1931.

The third Nautilus (SS-168), launched in 1930, received a Presidential Unit Citation for outstanding performances in combat during World War II. She was sold in 1945.

"This newest Nautilus," said Mr. Lewis Straus, Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, at the launching, "is something new under the sun. In this eleventh year of the atomic age, it typifies the spirit of America at the time of its founding. We are strong with the strength of atomic thunderbolts to resist aggression and to forestall tyranny, while at the same time we extend the olive branch of a worthy peace, made more worthy by our purpose to see it enriched with the fruits of man's inventiveness and ingenuity and good will. Today's historic event strengthens the means of security for all nations. It also gives new impetus to the 'peaceful potential' of the atomic force which turns the engines of the Nautilus and which, we trust before too long, can be put to the service of all mankind."

Around 1880, Jules Verne, the French novelist whose fertile imagination anticipated many later discoveries, wrote a fascinating fictitious adventure story entitled Twenty Thousand Leagues Under The Sea. In 1957, the atom-powered Nautilus completed her 20,000 leagues under the sea without re-fueling by traveling 50,000 miles under the surface of the sea.

Rear Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, U.S.N., who was principally responsible for the development of USS Nautilus (SS(N)-571), migrated at the age of six, with his father, from Russia. He graduated from the Naval Academy in 1922. It was he who convinced the Navy of the possibilities of applying atomic energy to submarines. Though he encountered many problems, his claim that it was ninety-five per cent engineering and five per cent scientific research, has been vindicated by the amazing performance of this vessel.

On August 1, 1958, the Nautilus submerged off Point Barrow, Alaska, went under the ice, and proceeded due north to become at 11:15 P.M. on August 3, the first ship in history to reach the North Pole. Then the Nautilus continued South to the Atlantic and on August 5 entered the open waters of the Greenland Sea, west of Spitzbergen, to become the first ship to make the Northwest Passage via the Polar route.

William Sterling Parsons was born on November 6, 1901, in Chicago, Ill., and graduated from the Naval Academy in 1922. He evinced an early interest in radar. Between 1939 and 1943, he served as Experimental Officer at the Naval Proving Ground, Dahlgren, Va., and had additional duty in the Pacific assisting in the introduction and initial battle-use of the proximity fuse. In 1943, he reported for duty at the Los Alamos Laboratory in New Mexico, where he worked on the development of the atomic bomb. After witnessing the bomb test in New Mexico, he returned to the Pacific. There, he flew the first atomic bomb from Tinian to Hiroshima and, personally, supervised its release at a great risk to the bomber and its crew. For this exceptionally meritorious service, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal.

In 1945, he was detailed as Assistant Chief of Naval Operations for Special Weapons with duty in connection with the atomic tests at Bikini which took place in July 1946. For this duty and for his scientific knowledge, he was awarded the Army Silver Star and the National Defense Medal. He died at the Bethesda Naval Hospital on December 5, 1953.

Launched: Sept. 24, 1957, at Puget Sound Bridge and Dredging Co.,
Seattle, Wash.

Sponsor: MRS. WILLIAM B. FRANKE, wife of Under Secretary of the Navy Franke.

Richard Stanislaus Edwards was born on February 18, 1885, in Philadelphia, Pa., and graduated from the Naval Academy in 1906. He was promoted successively until he reached the grade of admiral in 1945.

In 1913, he was Commander, Group One Submarine Flotilla, assigned to the defense of the Panama Canal. During World War I, he served in USS Arkansas which was attached to the British Grand Fleet in 1918. From 1919 to 1920, he served as Commander, Battleship Squadron One (Pacific).

During his career, he taught at the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., at the General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and at the Naval War College, Newport, R.I.

In 1939, he was awarded the Navy Cross for participating in the successful salvage of USS Squalus and the rescue of part of her crew.

During World War II, he served as Commander Submarines (Atlantic), as Deputy Chief of Staff, as Deputy Commander in Chief, and as Deputy Chief of Naval Operations. Richard Somers, III, was born on Sept. 15, 1778, in Somers Point, N.J. He received his warrant as a midshipman on April 30, 1798. At the age of twenty-five, he was placed in command of the schooner Nautilus attached to Commodore Preble's squadron operating in the Mediterranean. Somers lost his life while executing a raid partly conceived by himself. The ketch Intrepid was loaded with combustibles which were to be set off inside the harbor of Tripoli. Either accidentally or intentionally, the fuse leading to the magazine was ignited and the entire raiding party of three officers and ten men was blown up. Congress passed a resolution for the men who lost their lives on the Intrepid and the officers of the squadron subscribed to the erection of a monument, now in the Naval Academy grounds, honoring the memory of Somers and five other officers who fell before Tripoli.

The first Somers was a schooner which operated with Perry's squadron on Lake Erie and was captured in 1814.

The second Somers was a 10-gun brig built in New York in 1842 and lost in a hurricane off Vera Cruz in 1846.

Launched: April 23, 1952, at Bethlehem Steel Co., Quincy, Mass.

Sponsor: LADY MOORE, widow of Vice Admiral Wilkinson, for whom the vessel was named. She is now the wife of Admiral Sir Henry Moore, Royal Navy (retired).

Theodore Starke Wilkinson was born on December 22, 1888, in Annapolis, Md., and graduated, first in his class, at the Naval Academy in 1909. While at the Academy, he initiated intercollegiate tennis. He saw service in several battleships, including USS Tennessee when the latter ship was ordered to the relief of stranded Americans in Europe at the outbreak of World War I. He served as commanding officer of several destroyers and with the Bureau of Ordnance where he was instrumental in developing satisfactory smoke-screening methods and in improving depth charges. In 1941, he was Commander Battleship Division 2 of the Pacific Fleet and, later, Commander 3rd Amphibious Force in the South Pacific.

In 1914, for his gallantry at Vera Cruz, he was awarded the Medal of Honor. In World War II, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for outstanding success in operations in support of the New Georgia and the Treasury Island campaigns. As Commander Task Force 79, he was awarded two Gold Stars in lieu of a second and a third Distinguished Service Medal. He died on February 21, 1946, in Norfolk, Va.

WILLIS A. LEE (DL-4)

Launched: Jan. 26, 1952, at Bethlehem Steel Co., Quincy, Mass.

Sponsor: MRS. FITZHUGH L. PALMER, JR., niece of Vice Admiral Lee, for whom the vessel was named.

Willis Augustus Lee, Jr., was born on May 11, 1888, in Natlee, Ky., and graduated from the Naval Academy in 1908. He served on several battleships, including USS New Hampshire when she participated in the occupation of Vera Cruz in 1914. During the first part of World War I, he had duty as Inspector of Ordnance (Chicago). In 1918, he joined the U. S. Destroyer Force in Queenstown, Ireland, and, later, served in several destroyers.

During the summer of 1920, he was a member of the U. S. Rifle Team that went to Belgium to take part in the Olympic Games. He, personally, won five firsts, one second, and one third awards.

Prior to World War II, he served as Inspector of Ordnance (New York), in USS Pennsylvania, and, later in USS Concord as head of the Gunnery Division of Fleet Training. At the beginning of World War II, he became Assistant Chief of Staff to the Commander in Chief of the U. S. Fleet, serving in Washington until he was ordered to the Pacific, in 1943, as Commander Battleships Pacific Fleet. For his outstanding services in the Pacific, he was awarded the Navy Cross, the Legion of Merit, the Distinguished Service Medal, and a Gold Star in lieu of a second Distinguished Service Medal. One citation reads, "He deployed his ships with superb tactical skill to achieve maximum strength in the defense of our carriers and, by accurate bombardments of shore installations, prepared for our successful amphibious landings." He was promoted to the grade of vice admiral in 1944. He died of a heart attack while returning to his Flagship, USS Wyoming, off the coast of Maine on August 25, 1945.

Supplementary List of Combatant Ships and Their Sponsors 1938-1945

PRIOR TO THE PUBLICATION of Volume III of Ships of the United States Navy and Their Sponsors, 1924-1950, Attack Cargo Ships, AKA's and Amphibious Force Flagships, AGC's were designated as combatant ships of the U.S. Navy and should have been included therein. However, at the time of publication, a complete list of these types of ships was not available. The AQUARIUS (AKA-16) and the DEVOSA (AKA-27) are the only two listed in Volume III. These two ships are included in this volume to make, what is believed to be, a complete record of AKA's and AGC's.

Fleet Auxiliaries

and Their Sponsors

THE RAPIDLY expanding scope of modern warfare has made every ship accompanying the Fleet subject to enemy attack. Every ship, including the Fleet Auxiliaries, must be armed and capable of defending herself. Hence the following Fleet Auxiliaries, launched prior to 1950 but not included in previous volumes, are now considered by the Navy as "fighting ships," and their sponsors are eligible for membership in the Society of Sponsors.

Many of these ships were acquired by the Navy after they were built and launched by the Maritime Commission, now the Maritime Administration of the Department of Commerce.

Fleet Auxiliaries built after 1946 are included in this volume under the heading SHIPS OF THE FIGHTING FLEET OF THE U. S. NAVY 1950-1958.

The following named Fleet Auxiliaries have been recorded in the third volume of Ships of the United States Navy and Their Sponsors 1924-1950:

Ajax (AR-6), Akutan (AE-13), Amphion (AR-13), Aventinus (ARV(E)-3), Barnegat (AVP-10), Bluebird (ASR-19), Bushnell (AS-15), Chanticleer (ASR-7), Chloris (ARV(E)-4), Cook Inlet (AVP)-36), Curtiss (AV-4), Dixie-2 (AD-14), Elkhorn (AOG-7), Fabius (ARV(A)-5), Florence Nightingale (AP-70), Fulton-3 (AS-11), Grand Canyon (AD-28), Hector (AR-7), *Howard W. ALASKA (CB-1) Large Cruiser

This ship is the Alaska-3.

The first Alaska was a wooden, screw-steamer launched in 1868 and sponsored by Miss Grace Hull. This ship was sold in 1886.

The second Alaska was a steam, fishing-hull tug taken over by the Navy by charter in 1918 and used as a minesweeper at the Navy Yard at Charleston, S.C. She was returned to her former owner in 1919.

The entry should read as follows:

DUNLAP (DD-384) Destroyer

Length: 341 feet Beam: 35 feet

Named for: BRIGADIER GENERAL ROBERT H. DUNLAP, U.S.M.C.

Launched: April 18, 1936, at United Shipbuilding and Dry Docks Corp., New York, N.Y.

Sponsor: MRS. ROBERT H. DUNLAP, widow of Brigadier General Dunlap, for whom the ship was named.

Robert H. Dunlap was born in Washington, D.C., on December 22, 1879, and appointed a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps on August 8, 1898. He served in the Philippines and China in 1900 and at Vera Cruz in 1914. During World War I, he commanded the 17th Regiment Field Artillery in the Meuse-Argonne offensive and was awarded the Navy Cross. In 1928, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for service in Nicaragua. He was also decorated by the President of Nicaragua for this service. He was promoted to the grade of brigadier general in 1929. He was killed in France on May 19, 1931, while saving the life of a woman who had been entrapped by a landslide. He lost his life when a second landslide occurred during the rescue of the woman whose life was saved by his efforts. For this act of heroism he was posthumously awarded a second Navy Cross. The French Government awarded him the Gold Carnegie Medal.

Page 472

THOMAS (DE-102)

Destroyer Escort

This ship's correct name is THOMAS-2 (DE-102)

Length: 306 feet Beam: 37 feet

Named for: Lieutenant Clarence Crase Thomas, U.S.N.

Launched: July 31, 1943, at Dravo Corporation, Wilmington, Del.

Sponsor: MRS. HERNDON B. KELLY, widow of Lieutenant Clarence C. Thomas, U.S.N., for whom the ship was named.

Clarence Crase Thomas was born on December 26, 1886, in Grass Valley, California. He was in command of the armed guard on board the SS Vacuum when it was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine on April 28, 1917. He is believed to have been the first United States officer to lose his life in World War I. He was awarded the Navy Cross for his heroism on this occasion.

The first Thomas was a torpedo boat destroyer which was launched in 1918. She was one of the fifty destroyers turned over to Great Britain in 1940 in exchange for insular bases. This ship was also sponsored by Lieutenant Thomas's widow.

TUTUILA (AGR-4)

River Gunboat

The correct classification of this ship is PR-4.

The sponsor was Miss Beverly Douglas Pollard, daughter of Commander John Beverly Pollard, M.C., U.S.N., and not Miss January Carter.
